Second NCOPC class begins

The KyANG is proud to offer its second NCO Preparatory Course for airmen first class and senior airmen. The class begins Monday and runs through February 19.

Our first class was lauded as a huge success and we fully expect this next one will be just as rewarding—both to the students participating and to the duty sections they will return to.

PME plays an important role in educating both NCOs and officers on the skills necessary to be a leader and manager. These courses, whether NCO Leadership School or the Senior NCO Academy, Squadron Officer School or Air War College, expand the member's perspective of the military profession.

There are numerous advantages to attending these courses in residence. A strong advantage is the opportunity to discuss with other military members any problems and/or solutions they have encountered at their particular base. Participating in these courses also allows individuals the opportunity to look at situations with a different or fresh perspective.

Here in Kentucky, we have many people who willingly attend PME courses or participate in the correspondence programs.

Brig. Gen. John L. Smith
Wing Commander

The success of the Preparatory Course demonstrates this willingness.

The airmen of today are our future Air Force and ANG leaders of tomorrow.

Meaningful worship

By Chaplain (Capt.) Thomas Curry

A Harvard psychologist recently suggested the idea that a meaningful and full life could be achieved by those who built their lives on three pillars: enjoyable work, a true experience of loving and being loved, and satisfying recreation. After long comments on these three pillars, he went on to say that he had recently added a fourth pillar - meaningful worship.

I certainly agree with his comment. There are times when worship, or what is passed off as worship, works against our inner peace. But we must come to understand that worship is a celebration of the life which God has so graciously given to us through Jesus Christ.

We can experience the reality of Christ in worship today. Worship puts us in touch with the truth that shapes our whole lives. It is a necessary element for our own spiritual formation.

Chaplain Thomas Curry

Oliver Wendell Holmes said it best. "I am a regular churchgoer. I would go for various reasons, even if I did not love it. In the corner of my heart there is a plant called reverence, which needs to be watered about once a week."

Congress remains supportive

2% Pay raise not anti-military

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The military's two percent pay raise for 1988 does not signal a return to the anti-military sentiment of the 1970s, according to Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern. Mr. McGovern said Congress is still "very, very much appreciative" of the sacrifices of military members and their families.

"I think there is a much broader understanding in Congress that recruiting and retaining good people has enhanced our military capability much more than any weapon system can do," Mr. McGovern said.

He believes members of congress understand they must pay the price to keep good people in uniform — and they are willing to pay it.

Mr. McGovern pointed out that even though overall defense spending is down, Congress saved people programs whenever possible. For instance, he noted that although Congress cut funding for military family housing, most of that cut was tied to the withdrawal of missiles from Europe as a result of the pending INF treaty.

"If you look at the sheer numbers, we lost 40 percent of what we asked for. But half of that was (cruise missile) systems being 'zeroed out' because of the pending arms treaty," Mr. McGovern said.

Congress has set a $285 billion ceiling for the 1988 defense budget. To stay under that ceiling, the Jan. 1 military pay raise has been limited to two percent.

The administration initially had asked for a four percent military pay hike in January. Congress authorized a three percent pay increase, but could fund only a two percent raise. The difference between a two percent and three percent military pay raise is about $500 million.

The two percent pay hike applies to basic pay, housing (BAQ) and food (BAS) allowances. It became effective Jan. 1. Federal civilian workers also received a two percent pay hike.

More or less?

A two percent military pay increase effective January 1 has become a loss of 5.51 percent, according to SMSgt. Elizabeth Church, NCOIC disbursement accounting.

The FICA deduction, social security tax, rate for Inactive Duty Pay is 7.51 percent also effective January 1. FICA had not previously been deducted from the military pay.

Cigarette ads — misleading?

By 2Lt. Patrick J. McGinnis
123d Tac Hospital

Open almost any magazine and you'll find pages and pages of slick advertisements for various tobacco products. A typical cigarette ad will portray a dashing young man engaged in a macho sport. Or it may show the successful businessman or woman relaxing and enjoying a smoke.

These ads serve to create an association of power, wealth, health and success with smoking.

This association is, at best, counterfeit. 'Misleading' would be a more appropriate term. Many people may ask "What's the big deal — it's a free country and I can choose to smoke or not to smoke."

The big deal is that smoking kills. The Fifth Avenue executives never present the grim statistics. Often, one makes a choice without knowing all the facts.

This article will present some of the skeletons hidden in the closets of the tobacco companies.

Where should we begin? A good place to begin is at the beginning.

Infants born to mothers who smoke have an average birthweight which is lower than that of infants whose mothers do not smoke. Also, pregnant women who smoke may have an increased risk for spontaneous abortion, stillbirth and neonatal death.

People will begin to smoke for a variety of reasons. Many begin in their teens or early twenties (twenties).

Smoking begins to adversely affect the lungs very early on. For example, lung tissue samples of young smokers and non-smokers (who died from accidental causes such as automobile wrecks) have been compared. Even in young individuals, there are microscopic changes visible in the lungs of smokers. These small alterations to lung tissue add up, and up over the years to cause a plethora of diseases.

Everyone has heard that smoking contributes to lung cancer. However, smoking also contributes to heart disease, heart attacks, stomach ulcers and a number of lesser known lung problems.

The word 'contribute' is used here because it is difficult to place a cause and effect label on a process which occurs over years and decades.

However, certain trends cannot be ignored. According to the American Cancer Society, "The link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer is well known. Approximately 89,000 people die of lung cancer in the U.S. per year, and about 87 percent of lung cancer cases are related to smoking. Smoking is responsible for more deaths from cancer than any other single agent — 20 percent of all cancer deaths.

"In all, smoking is a casual agent in more than 325,000 premature deaths every year. To put in money terms, heavy cigarette smoking costs the U.S. $17 billion a year in unnecessary bills — $4 billion for the medical care to treat the illnesses it causes and at least $13 billion for accidents, absenteeism, lost output, etc.

"Studies in more than 15 countries have shown the death rate from lung cancer in cigarette smokers is about 10 times that of non-smokers. Smoking is a major factor in developing emphysema, chronic bronchitis, diseases of the circulatory system and peptic ulcers."

Now, some of you smokers may be snickering at this article. Perhaps you smoke the low tar, nicotine cigarettes. Beware! There still is no safe cigarette. Death rates from those brands of cigarettes are still nine times higher than from non-smokers.

There is of course another side of the coin. Smoking is a habit. It is intimately entwined with meals, socializing, daily routines, etc. No doubt — many smokers derive considerable enjoyment from smoking. And some people won't quit smoking for fear of gaining weight.

Data on smoking by members of the 123d TRW was recently compiled. The survey represents 61 percent of all wing personnel (56 percent airmen/NCOs and 86 percent officers).

Of the 774 respondents, 68 percent reported they were non-smokers and 32 percent reported they were smokers. Of the smokers, 85 percent were airmen or NCOs, 15 percent were commissioned officers.

The intent of this article was to re-alert wing members of the dangers of smoking and give smokers valid reasons to quit.

So, to smoke or not to smoke? You be the judge.

New regulation reflects uniform changes

Current changes in the June 30, 1987 edition of Air Force Regulation 35-10 reflect design changes that make it easier to read and to understand. Also, illustrations are improved and are coordinated with uniform descriptions.

Air Force Uniform Board changes during 1987 were incorporated in this edition of AFR 35-10. Guidelines on badge submission will be forthcoming in view of the approval of the new maintenance badge.

A two-year, phase-in change was accepted for the requirements on the "U.S." insignia on women's blazer style service coats. The wearing of the grade insignia or emblems on baseball caps and fatigue caps was also given a two-year phase-in.

New light-weight blue jackets with velcro attached liners were approved for both men and women. The white mess dress jacket was phased and pregnant women were authorized to wear appropriate civilian attire to mess dress functions.

Change 1 of AFR 35-10 is currently being worked on by the Air Force Military Personnel Center to reflect guidance on the wear of the battle dress uniform. It will also offer a clarification on the policy of wearing flight clothing. The DoD policy on wearing of religious apparel with the uniform is expected.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting TSgt. Sharon Bizor, base personal affairs office at ext. 486/485.

KyANG assists Dare to Care

The Kentucky Air National Guard dared to care in 1987 and came through by donating 350 pounds of assorted canned goods.

Receipts from a Dare to Care, Inc., representative indicated the amount collected reflected a value of $49.88.

Donations are used to help care for those who are ill and needy and on fixed incomes in Louisville, Jefferson County and Southern Indiana areas. Others may qualify for assistance by contacting Dare to Care, Inc.

Unit mugs available

Unit coffee mugs and steins are available for purchase at the 165th TRS orderly room.

The mugs and steins may be ordered by completing an order form maintained at the orderly room's front desk. Orders will be taken through the April UTA.

Deaf School says thanks

Dear General Smith,

We were so thrilled to receive the most generous gift from the members of the Kentucky Air National Guard. Our only wish is that each of you could visit the Louisville Deaf Oral School for a day and see for yourselves what a difference our program makes in the lives of the families we serve. With the benefit of our excellent audiological services, counseling, and therapy infants slowly begin to develop the confidence and skills which are needed if they are to develop oral communication. It is rewarding to watch this transformation. If any members would be interested in a tour, please give me a call. We love to have visitors.

The contribution from the Kentucky Air National Guard is most appreciated and also timely. Since school started two months ago we have had eleven new babies join us. We can only hope our enrollment doesn't continue growing this fast!

Thanks so very much.

Yours truly,

Lynn Peter
